About the Workshop

Indian higher education system is encircled by several heterogeneous conditions such as infrastructural, social, locational, regional, economical and aspirational issues, to name a few. Due to these issues, maintaining the quality of research has always been a challenge. Many of the nations are trying to reinforce the quality of research and time has come when India too needs to prioritize it. The National Education Policy (NEP) 2020 intends to revamp the whole education system including research. The NEP 2020 envisions the establishment of a National Research Foundation (NRF) with the aim of allowing a culture of research to permeate our universities.

However, quality research is possible only when the researchers undergo systematic training in research methodology. Research methodology is a structured framework of conducting research in order to address various issues and to solve problems in a scientific way. Therefore, it is imperative for the researchers to understand research methodology and applications of contemporary statistical techniques for conducting research.

In recognition of the need for reorienting and upgrading the research abilities of research scholars of social sciences and inter-disciplinary areas, the National Law University Odisha proposes to organize an intensive ten-days workshop on Research Methodology with an object of enhancing research skills of the scholars and to provide them a unique opportunity to get themselves trained in the methodology of research.

Objectives of the Workshop

The proposed Research Methodology Course intends to strengthen the academic talent pool of the participants who are M.Phil. or Ph.D. Scholars enrolled in any recognised universities. The aim is to reach out to students from different social science disciplines to impart an inter-disciplinary approach of capacity building. The workshop focuses on addressing the challenges faced by the researchers by introducing students to mixed methods of research. This will enable them in identifying and understanding the techniques required for their research. The major emphasis has been given to tools of data collection involved in qualitative approaches and mixed method. Atlas Ti is a recent technique which is much used by the researchers involved in qualitative research hence it is included within the sessions. Similarly, the workshop aims to train students in publishing quality research papers in Scopus indexed and High Impact Factor Journals which is a mandatory requirement for researchers who aim to pick up teaching as their career option. The key objectives of the course are:

- To enable the participants in comprehending relevance of Social Sciences research, defining the research problem and developing a well-defined methodological framework for their research interest.
- To familiarise the participants with research challenges and their possible solutions.
- To expose the participants to analytical skillsets for research by apprising them with methods of data collection, processing, interpretation and analysis.
- To enable participants in understanding the basics of qualitative research using contemporary tools.
- To sensitize participants on the ethical aspects of social and behavioural research as well as plagiarism software.
- To train the participants in quality academic writing be it dissertation or research reports.
- To help the participants to understand the significance of publishing in high impact factor peer-reviewed journals.

Key Topics to be Covered
